Preschool Helps Handicapped Tots

Scotty's parents didn't know what his problem was. The three year old had behavioral problems, he grunted like an animal and had a very small vocabulary.

The Tacoma Learning Center promised to help. His parents enrolled him, and within weeks his vocabulary improved and he was becoming more socialized. Today, a year later, he fits in well with children slightly younger than he.

Without early intervention, Scotty my have needed special education throughout his school career for his learning disability. He may still need it, but the problems won't be as pronounced.

There are 60 children under three in Pierce County who have been diagnos ed as developmentally delayed and who are not getting help, said Kathryn Stevens, program manager of TLC.

Shawn Spratley & Daniel Ihlen plays with the Jack in the box.

The preschool handles 27 children from birth to three. The program is housed in two nursery rooms of First United Methodist Church in Tacoma. Down the hall from them is the church's cooperative preschool, where TLC students are integrated when they are considered ready.

The school is run with county funds, student tuition and private donations. Since they opened in November 1981, they have been struggl ing to get speech and physical therap eutic equipment and educational materials for the parents.

Early intervention is not unusual in itself, but TLC is because it is a cooperative preschool. Parents participate once a week in the class room. The school is run by a parent board

For more information please contact Mrs. Stevens at 272-2702 or at 423 South "K" Street.

HAVE YOU BELIEVED OUR REPORT?
Series #1 part 11
Isaiah 53rd chapter 1st & 2nd verses

Who hath believed our report and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground: he hath no form nor comeliness; and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

THE LORD IS READY FOR YOU, ARE YOU READY FOR THE LORD?
59th chapter Isaiah 1st-8th verse

Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear:

But your iniquities have seperated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear.

For your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies, your tongue hath muttered perverseness.

None calleth for justice, nor any pleadeth for truth: they trust in vanity, and speak lies; they conceive mischief, and bring forth iniquity.

They hatch cockatrice' eggs, and weave the spider's web: he that eateth of their eggs dieth, and that which is crushed breaketh out into a viper.

Their webs shall not become garments, neither shall they cover themselves with their works: their works are works of iniquity, and the act of violence is in their hands.

Their feet run to evil, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity; waste and destruction are in their paths.

The way of peace they know not; and there is no; judgment in their goings: they have made them crooked paths: whosoever goeth therein shall not know peace.

ROMANS CHAPTER 5

Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ:

By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience;

And patience, experience; and experience, hope:

And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us.

For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly.

For scarcely for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die.

But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.

Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him.

For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life.

And not only so, but we slao joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement.

Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned:

(For until the law sin was in the world: but sin is not imputed when there is no law.

Nevertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them that had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression, who is the figure of him that was to come.

But not as the offence, so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

THE HUNGER PROBLEM BY JOHN E. JACOB

It's about time the issue of hunger—here and abroad--moved to the front and center stage of national debate.

Food policy is in chaos while hunger is mounting at home and famine threatens dozens of millions of people abroad.

The argument in Washington centers on the Administration's desire to impose further deep cuts in food and nutrition programs and Congress' resistance to making those cuts.

But where are the voices demanding a comprehensive food policy that ensures an adequate diet for all? Over forty million Americans exist below or a little above the artifical line we call the poverty level. Virtually all of them need some form of assistance to enable access to balanced diets.

Food stamps have proven an effective method of enabling the poor to avoid hunger, but only about half of those in need qualify for the stamps. And policymakers want to force some of them off the rolls instead of expanding eligibility requirements to allow more people in need to get aid.

The irony here is that stockpiles of surplus food are bulding to the point where the government is giving it away to farmers to sell in lieu of growing still more food crops. The existence of food stamps helped to largely end malnutrition, according to Field Foundation studies--one made in 1967 showing the existence of widespread undernourishment among the poor and another 10 years later showing that food stamps helped change that situation.

A study today would undoubtedly find a sharp rise in hunger, since the numbers of poor have risen, the numbers getting food stamps and nutrition assistance have been cut, and the income available to the poor and near-poor has been reduced by cuts in a wide array of federal social service programs.

As if domestic hunger were not bad enough, world hunger to is on the rise. Estimates say a billion people in the world go to bed hungry every night.

Drought threatens millions in Africa wiht starvation. In the early and mid-seventies severe drought in the Sahel region led to many thousands of death—some estimates go as high as half a million deaths due to starvation and hunger-related disease.

Now even large areas of Africa are in danger. In addition to the Sahel, severe hunger grips East Africa where crop failures in Ethiopia and Somalia imperil millions.

And the drought has affected southern Africa, as well. In Zimbabwe crops are down by half and reports say a third of the livestock herds have died. South Africa, which exported grain to black Africa will have to import grains itself this years.

All this adds up to a major food crisis in Africa and other nations in the Third World. But national policy here is directed to figuring out how those nations can pay of trheir loans rather than how they can feed their people.

The issues of domestic and world hunger are linked in that humanitarian concerns are secondary in both in stances. Instead of pinching pennies on the backs of the poor, food stamp and nutrition program budgets should be set by the level of need. And instead of bribing our farmers not to plant crops, our food surplus ought to be loaded onto ships bound for nations where famine threatens.

This is an issue one would have thought would dominate the Williamsberg Conference of The West's leaders. But the agenda didn't have room for discussion about how the afluent nations could respond to the dangers of Third World Famine.

And our home-grown hunger gets as little sympathy from the agenda-makers in Washington. Compassion is a dirty word these days, but the cries of the hungry must be answered.

WHAT'S A RACE?

What's a race? Is it your color? Your culture? Your hair? Scientists have wrestled with htis question for centuries. It seems that is is easier to recognize racial differences than it is to define them. Many different ways of classifying races have been tried, such as skin color, head shape, nose shape, hair, ear wax and fingerprints. Some experts scholars say there are only two races, others identify 200.

Members of the Baha'i Faith believe that there is only one race; the human race. Not only is "race" a mostly unscientific concept, but the different colors, sizes, shapes, and nationalities of people have been constantly intermarrying since time began. You and I, and all of us have had ancestors and cousins of every race, if we only go back a few hundred years.

In the Baha'i Sacred Writings, it is said 'that the different colors of people are like the different blossoms in a flower garden. If all flowers were the same color, the effect would be monotonous and depressing. Racial differences make the world beautiful!

By the way, it is a scientific fact that even if everyone on earth married completely at random from now on, racial diversity would never disappear. There could never be one "grey" race.
